Finite-difference time-domain or Yee's method (named after the Chinese American applied mathematician Kane S. Yee, born 1934) is a numerical analysis technique used for modeling computational electrodynamics (finding approximate solutions to the associated system of differential equations). Since it is a time-domain method, FDTD solutions can cover a wide frequency range with a single ...

In the following section the detection principles on thin metallic layers and metallic spherical nanoparticles are recalled and an effective refractive index is defined in order to compare the signals from the pSPR and ISPR systems.

Flow cytometry is a powerful analytical tool for the analysis of multiple biological parameters of individual cells or particles within heterogeneous cell populations. It has been widely used in biomedical research to perform immunophenotyping, cell counting and numerous cell function assessments, such as intracellular cytokine production, protein phosphorylation, cell proliferation and apoptosis.
