Living polymerization: A chain polymerization from which chain transfer and chain termination are absent. Note: In many cases, the rate of chain initiation is fast compared with the rate of chain propagation, so that the number of kinetic-chain carriers is essentially constant throughout the polymerization.

Living polymerization - Wikipedia

Living anionic polymerization is a living polymerization technique involving an anionic propagating species. Living anionic polymerization was demonstrated by Szwarc and co workers in 1956. Their initial work was based on the polymerization of styrene and dienes.

Living anionic polymerization - Wikipedia

1.. Introduction Photoinitiated polymerization is an attractive technique for the in situ formation of hydrogels as it provides unparalleled spatial and temporal control over the formation of the material. Photopolymerizations are also generally advantageous as a means for cellular encapsulation, based on their rapid reaction rates which enable facile encapsulation without significant cell ...

Photoinitiated polymerization of PEG-diacrylate with

The huge difference in reactivity of the tertiary mid-chain radical compared to the secondary end-chain radical results in a number of complications, both in terms of kinetics and polymer microstructure, which continue to be the source of discussion in the literature.
