The engine was supplied by a Volvo workshop and cost Â£2441. I could not have bought the bits to recondition the engine myself at this price and these chaps really know what they are doing. They charged Â£379 for fitting which took them one day. The engine is a beauty and purred all the way back across the north sea.

Is there an engine with the same form factor (location of mounts relative to output shaft) as the MD3 Volvo, which is an easy "drop-in" replacement. Are the engine mounts for the MD3 on the same narrow plan (11.5" ctr to ctr) as the MD1B and the Atomic Four, and therefore would the Universal and Beta marinized Kubota's that are drilled for ...
